"Lingerlonger," the beautiful new home . Miss Lizabeth Weitz for some thirty of of Judge and Mrs. O. W. Powers, was thrown open last evening for the first lime to their friends, several hundred of whom called between the hours of 8 and 12 o'clock. In keeping with the day, the tational colors prevailed in the decorascores of red, white and blue lights. Over the arch in the large hall was hung a beautiful American flag. Great clusters of American Beauties adorned the dining Table, while vases of white carnations were seen in the parlor and library. American flags covered the walls and celling of the billard-room, where refreshments were served, and of the large room n the third floor, which was converted into a most attractive smoking-room. A few palms were seen in the parlor, and plumosa and smilax wreathed the pillars en the main fleor. Punch was served in the dining-room, the table being very prettily arranged with smilax. Red, white and blue radiated from the chandelier to the walls on all sides of the biliard-room, completely covering the celling. Large flags covered the walls, and red and white carnations stood on side-board and bookeases. In the center of the board and bookeases. In the center of the effreshment table was a hundsome crystal candelabrum, with red candles and shades with a single crystal candlestick on each corner. Draped diagonally across the table, with graceful loops and bows on either end, were broad suches of red and blue satin ribhon. Assisting Judge and Mrs. Powers in receiving their guests were Mrs. C. C. Goodwin, Mrs. Ellsworth Daggett, Mrs. John Marshall, Mrs. W. Montague Ferry, Mrs. E. O. Howard, Miss Mary Louise Anderson, Miss Rooklidge and Mrs. Woodward.

There are many beautiful homes in Salt-lake but not cone of the meany is a few and a salt lake but not one of the meany is a few and cone of the co on the main floor. Punch was served in and Miss Woodward.

There are many beautiful homes in Salt Lake, but not one of the many is at once more elegant and homelike than Linger-longer," so appropriately named, for who would not linger here where the beauty of would not linger here where the beauty of inger-ionger, so appropriately named, for who would not linger here where the beauty of the surroundings could not fall to appeal to the artistic sense, where the very atmosphere seems filled with hospitality. The house is of the old Dutch Colonial style, with wide verandas extending entirely around. A broad door, built in keeping with the architecture of the house, opens into a large reception hall, whose walls are covered with rich darkstreen brocade, in beautiful contrast to the pure white woodwork. To the left of the reception hall are the parlor and library, each of which is separated from the reception hall by piliars and fretwork in white in these rooms also the walls and hangings are of the same rich dark-green seen in the hall, with the woodwork in white. Broad, old-fashioned Dutch windows occupy almost the entire space of the west walls, commanding a magnificent view of the west. Long, low bookcases are built in the library, filling in all the spaces. On the north wall is an old Dutch fire place, built of rough gray sandstone. On the mantel stand some fine old brass candlesticks, such as are used in the Greek church, and these last night held lighted white candles without shades. Above the mantel is a rare old Dutch mirror with a heavy gilt frame. A feature of the entire house worthy of note is the woodwork, which was made from a special design. There are no straight-top deers or windows, every one of them belog curved, with a special ornamental design at the top of each. The diming-room is a work of art ladeed, with its walls of old bine burlap, its ceilings of gilt burlap, with heavy beams of mahogany, and the old-fashioned Dutch cupboards and side-board of the same rich wood. The doors cading from the dising-room into the old blue burlap, its ceilings of gilt burlap, with heavy beams of mahogany, and the old-fashioned Dutch cupboards and side-board of the same rich wood. The doors reading from the dining-room into the ball are the handsomest ever seen here. The frame work is of solid mahogany, with diamond-shaped pleces of French plate glass set in bronze extending from the top to the bottom. The den, with walls of rich red burlap and finishings and furnishings of Flemish oak, occupies the south corner of the house. An old Dutch threplace of dark red brick occupies the entire east wail of the room.

A plain but handsome staircase of mahogany leads to the second floor, where are found the sleeping apartments. The stuest chamber is an especially beautiful room, with walls of old rose brocade, an old-fashioned woven rug of the same color, with a high poster bed and dresser of mahogany. Mrs. Powers's apartments are in pink and green, with furniture of gilt; Judge Powers's in red and white, with mahogany furniture, while the room of the son and heir is all in red. All the woodwork upstairs is in white and the relings here, as in all the rooms downstairs, are of ochre. The servants' apartments and sitting-rooms are in keeping with the rest of this altogether well-arrianged house. It seems that not a convenience has been omitted, and Judge and Mrs. Powers may well feel proud of their new home, for it was built and finished from plans made by themselves, and surely no better could be found for a home of its size.

Tendency of the Times. The tendency of medical science is toward preventive measures. The best thought of the world is being given to the subject. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. It has been fully demonstrated that pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, can be prevented by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of influenza (grip), and it has been observed that this remedy counteracts any tendency of these diseases toward pneumonia. This has been fully proven in many thousands of cases in which this ramedy has been used during the great prevalence of colds and grip in recent years, and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. Pneumonia often results from a slight cold when no danger is apprehended until it is suddenly discovered that there is fever and difficulty in breathing and pains in the chest, then it is announced that the patient has

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Parker was very prettily decorated for the occasion, the national colors prevailing throughout. In the large hall the walls were covered with silk flags, the banister was entwined with bunting in the national colors, while all the lights were shaded in red. In the parlor red and white flowers were used. A small cherry tree stood in the center of the dining-room were ropes of the flags, while scattered over the cloth were small hatchets and flags. Suspended from the chandeller to the four corners of the dining-room were ropes of the flags, while vases of red and white carnations were placed on the sideboard. #### AMUSEMENTS.

The Chinese affair at the Sait Lake Theatre last night sustained the high reputation of honeymoons of all nationalities of being delightful. And in accordance with a custom about as old as matrimony itself, those whose honeymoon it was acted in a manner mest amusing to the spectators. It was not, however, the customary devotion of newly wedded couples that caused the merriment on this occasion, for such touching affection was rather limited. It was a disposition to be fickle, and one no doubt should be sorry to have to say it, that caused the fom. And you can see how embarrassing this tendency to fickleness must become in a country where every man who kisses a malden is compelled by law to marry her. Imagine how such a law would affect various married men even in Sait Lake! Another innovation was the presence of eight bridesmalds in the touring party, who were along principally to enable the groom to say that "two is company, but eight is a board of directors," and to add a fine bunch of beauties to the chorus. The chorus, thus reinforced, contains more girls than have appeared in any other company of the season. Prettly arrayed, and appearing in the midst of Chinese ornamentation it forms beautiful spectacles of Oriental sumptuousness.

The most pleasing person in the big combination is its smallest member. Toby Claude is a dumpling, a peach, or almost anything clase that is appetizing. She stands four feet six in her stockings, but she is big enough at times to nearly fill the stage. Her entire naturainess, her sprightliness, her vainglorious strutting, her cockney talk, her pretty little mannerisms, make this cute elfin one of the most capitivating of artists. When she is cut-ting up with tall W. H. Clarke, the contrast is convulsing Mr. Clarke has the past of a Mongolian emperor, and endows it with good acting and a remarkably fine bass voice. Little Toby doesn't pretend to be able to sing much, but in a duet with Clarke she slings all around him, for she encircles him as she sings running with his queue. I good enough for any two, as he is six feet four.

As the original husband of the affair John E. Henshaw is an excellent comedian and singer, and Edward Clarke, as a young fellow who wants to be a husband, also sings well. As singers, the women principals do not shine, though Miss Frances Knight, who is the Emperor's niece, has a fair voice. But she and Miss Stella Tracy, the bride, have vivacity and the ability to look well and make clothes look well. Miss Tracy is gifted as a mimic, her imitations of Anna Held, Luiu Glaser and other comediennes being very clever. Miss May Ten Broeck was an official mother-in-law of ample proportions and appropriate asperity.

Fortunately, the assurance was given that there was nothing suggestive in the show, or people might have thought they detected comediennes. that there was nothing suggestive in the show, or people might have thought they detected something of the kind. On account of the assurance, or was it in spite of it, the house was filled. A big audience would also have been in attendance in the afternoon had not the late arrival of the company made it impossible to give an afternoon performance. Performances will be given tonight and tomorrow afternoon and night.

Seats are now on sale for the Florence Roberts engagement at the Salt Lake Theatre. "The Frisky Mrs. Johnson" will be given on Thursday and Friday nights and "Zaza" at the Saturday matinee and night performances. "The Frisky Mrs. Johnson" shows Miss Roberts in a style of art new to her, and much interest is felt in her work in it.

A fine house greeted the initial appearance of the Gus Sun American minstrels at the Grand yesterday afternoon. The house was swelled owing to the fact that many of those who had come down town to attend the matinee at the Sait Lake Theater went over to the other playhouse when they found there was nothing doing. The minstrel company comprises an excellent group of comedians and singers and the noveitles are especially good. The stage setting of the grand spectacular first part, "A Dream of Mars," is very attractive and the Colonial attire and wigs of the players were especially appropriate considering that it was Washington's Birthday. The droll humor of the songs of Fred P. Russell took the house and is deserving of special mention. The specialties are all good. The barrel jumping stunt of Conners and Montrose is hard to beat, and Heller, the wire artist; is there with the goods. with the goods.

The matinee performance of "A Chinese Honeymoon," to have been given at the Sait Lake Theater yesterday, was called off on account of the belated arrival of the scenery. The train bearing the company and stage parphernalia from Callfornia was late and did not get in until nearly 2 o'clock. A large crowd of people were disappointed when it was found that it would be impossible to give an afternoon performance of the production.

SEVIER'S POULTRY SHOW.

First Exhibition Passes Off to Meet Most Sanguine Expectations-Premiums Awarded

RICHFIELD, Feb. 22.-The first poul-try exhibition of the Sevier County Poultry association was a success in a degree far beyond the most sanguine hopes of in the Richfield opera-house and lasting three days, was an unusual attraction for this region and drew a daily crowd, large in number and in enthusiasm. Great credit is due the officers of the new organization, the first of its nature in Sevier county. Only a few weeks ago the society was born, with Anthony Soyka, president; Samuel Nebeker, Frank Wright, Oliver Borg and James Brown, vice-presidents, S. G. Clark and Martin Thorsen, secretaries; Chariton Seegmiller, treasurer. Now the association has a membership larger than that of any other county poultry association in Utah and rivaling that of the State.

The average daily attendance at this initial exhibit of the association was upward of 300, and the show proved a financial success. The premium list of forty pages was twice as large as that of the last State show and cost a considerable sum. Other expenses were necessarily high on account of this having been the opening exhibit in the county, but the re-celpts were more than sufficient to liqui-date the bills incurred.

VISITING EXPERTS.

Visitors from outside Sevier county were poultry owners from Sait Lake and Ogden, some from Sanpete county. Profs. Dryden, Hutt and Merrill, who came down from the Agricultural college to lecture to the Poultry association and a meeting of the Sevier County Farmers' association, which was held in conjunction with the chicken show, and Judge J. W. Haslam of Sait Lake, who did the scoring. The unqualified opinion of Judge Haslam, freely expressed, was to the effect that this first exhibit in Sevier county was the finest first show given by any county association in Utah, and even exunty association in Utah, and even ex-iled the first show of the State associa-

celled the first show of the State association

Some features of special note were the Brown Leghorn cock awned by Simon Christensen of Richfield, which scored 23½, that being the highest mark won by any bird of this breed in Utah outside of one owned at Haslam's poultry yard at Salt Lake; a guinea cock, the property of Frank Wright of Annabella, which scored 25½, the best in Utah; a Chester White sow, shown as a side issue, owned by J. C. Christensen of Inverury and weighing 850 pounds, and her six-monthold pig, whose weight is 250 pounds.

The entiries were open to the entire State, there being a total of thirty-four entiries filed. There were one coop of Belgian hares and forty-seven coops of fowls, or 5 hares and 250 fowls. There were chickens hatching in two tneubators on display, one made in Petaluma, Cal., and the other manufactured by a company at Fairview, Sanpete county.

treated, find fatal termination in consumption. "I had been troubled with lung dis-ease and pleurisy for a number of years and the trouble had almost become chronic," writes A. S. Hlam, of Howe, Is, "Had several kinds t physicians without of medicine from different physicians without much benefit. At last wrote to Dr R, V. Pierce and got his advice, and began using his 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I have used twenty-five bottles. When I commenced taking it I had no appetite, my system was completely ran-down, bad no ambition to do anything. Now I feel better than I did before I got sick. Have a good appetite and am able to do my work. I sincerely recommend Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to all who are afflicted as I was."
